

Agriculture

Job Description

Agriculture responsibilities are duties that involve farming for the production of plant crops and breeding livestock or other organisms. Some agricultural tasks include producing food, feeding animals and managing farmland. These agricultural responsibilities help with human survival, as it provides people with food to sustain them

Job Responsibilities

Agriculture responsibilities are duties that involve farming for the production of plant crops and breeding livestock or other organisms. Some agricultural tasks include producing food, feeding animals and managing farmland. These agricultural responsibilities help with human survival, as it provides people with food to sustain them

Plans and implements agricultural sub-sectors and research projects, and provides farmers with information about crop selection, rotation, cultivation, and harvesting

- Agronomist

Works with growers to provide advice and leadership using their skills in field scouting, soil management, and market analysis

Other responsibilities of agriculture jobs include:

- Understanding research techniques and directions
- Working outdoors and in various weather conditions
- Operating agricultural equipment
- Communicating with farmers, agricultural professionals, government officials, and consumers